cons. “Green, sustainable, natural.” That’s the message behind Kinsale Island Oyster Co.’s latest product: their new “green ocean” ceviche, made with natural, in-season mussels and various types of scallops. Kinsale’s main goal is to provide San Diego County with clean, healthy seafood. The sea creatures they use are certified and wild caught, and they also use local businesses. Kinsale was started in 2011 by brothers Sean and Tom Twohig. Their mom worked in food service at the Children’s Hospital and worked on turning some of her recipes into a company. She’s the brains behind the Kinsale menu. The company has three local locations. I stopped in at the Solana Beach location on Solana Avenue, in a space that's much smaller than I expected. The space has a few different areas. One is the custom oyster shucking area. There are several varieties of oysters for visitors to choose from. There's the raw Kumamoto and Santa Barbara, as well as the Duxky, which is a littlename scallop that's usually referred to as Kumamoto scallops. As I have observed already in this forum, and also in a completely different forum, the USA is an example of state-capitalism to the extreme, a capitalist nation in which all the power lies in the state, and the citizens have very little or no rights. It is as if it were a country under martial law, in which all rights are suspended. Yet there is no check on the power of the state, and no way to force the state to act. It is a state-capitalism of the worst kind. One of the main reasons is that the big media conglomerates control the vast media output of the US, and they have no competition. If you do get the MSM to be fair, it is because you can get them to ignore you, and, being corporate, that is what they do. I have often speculated that the USA is an example of state-capitalism, to the extreme, but I have never been able to find any real confirmation of that. There have been a few suggestions that it is a state-fascism, or a state-communism, but nothing concrete.

Q: Using delimiters in a JSON.NET jsonParser I have a JSON string that looks like this { "SomeInfo": [{ "Variable1": "Value1", "Variable2": "Value2" }] } where it needs to get SomeInfo and the two variables Variable1 and Variable2 and insert the values into a DataTable (object or list - doesn't matter)

Some Uninstallation Issue has occurred. Tried to repair with no success. When I try to Uninstall FileExtensionFixer, it simply remain a process running. This did not happen with any of the previous three apps (2ndPct, Textra File Repair and FileCor) I've used to deal with the same problem. I have tried different registry, disk and uninstall cleaner tools, all failed with varying degrees of the same issue. I even went to the manufacturer of the laptop and they suggested me to uninstall the Vista 32 bit version and install the 64 bit version. Still not working. Finally after about an hour of fiddling and trying, I ended up uninstalling FileExtensionFixer and installing the free app, File Repair. That really helped to solve the problem. The free File

Repair really helped to solve the problem. DO NOT BUY ANY OF THE MALWARE FILES IN THE DOWNLOADED FILES!!!! I hate to admit but it really was a mistake on my part to click on that file. When I read the file warning, I should have just click on it. But after I clicked on it, it installed other stuff including Malwarebytes and other spyware and phishing. It was not my intention to download or open that file, but like mentioned earlier, I don't think I should have done that. I should have simply said NO! It was a real hassle and probably will cost me money to have all those problems cleared
